

Haunting Thoughts

It has happened again

You're lost

Puzzled

Again.

You try to focus

On other friends

They'll be there

If you fall.

Watching her friends

Rallying around her

Like they should

You wonder where has she been?

Haunting thoughts wake you

Recalling when the situation was reversed

You try rationalising everything

But you always are disillusioned.

You wait for some kind of contact

But the hurt intensifies,

You think of those friends

Who are worth your thoughts.